A parliamentary system of government _____ in two basic ways. In a republic, like the United States, the president is the head of state. In a parliamentary system, like Great Britain, the head of state is not the prime minister but a king, queen, or another figure. The prime minister, as well as his or her cabinet of advisors, runs the government. The second way the systems are different is in how the leader is elected. In a republic, the president is typically directly chosen by the people, who vote for him or her in an election. In a parliamentary election, the people don't directly vote for the prime minister; instead, they vote for a representative of a political party. The political party that gets a majority of the seats in parliament is subsequently asked to form a government. The leader of that party then becomes prime minister.

- ① is superior to other forms of government
- ② reminds people of a republican system
- ③ differs from a republican system
- ④ is identical to a republican government

문 13. 다음 밑줄에 들어갈 것으로 가장 적절한 것은?

There were times that Korean companies and companies around the world _____ in an attempt to make a mark in the global market. However, even after decades of economic development and at a time when Korea is the world's 11th largest economy, deep-rooted bad habits show no sign of dying any time soon. While one day it is about music videos, the next it is about movies, songs, novels, and academic articles. And now it appears that it has become the norm in Korea to copy other people's work and not to give them credit.

- ① copied Japanese products
- ② focused on new technology
- ③ changed their old practices
- ④ formed taskforce teams

문 14. 다음 글의 주제로 가장 적절한 것은?

Mount Rushmore is one of the United States' most recognizable monuments. It features the faces of four American presidents—George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, and Abraham Lincoln—and is sculpted from the granite of a mountain in South Dakota. Sculptor Gutzon Borglum and more than 400 workers spent almost fourteen years on the project, which they finished in 1941. The U.S. government commissioned the work and consulted with its creators as to which presidents' faces to place on the mountainside. After much debate, they finally agreed that each president must either represent the United States or have played a role in its preservation or expansion. The four chosen fit the bill perfectly since they each made important contributions to American history.

- ① Why George Washington is on Mount Rushmore
- ② The background history of Mount Rushmore
- ③ The geography of Mount Rushmore
- ④ The difficulties involved in making Mount Rushmore

문 15. 다음 글의 제목으로 가장 적절한 것은?

People all around the world have constructed canals in order to facilitate travel by water. In the past century and a half, two canals have been of tremendous importance. They are the Suez Canal and the Panama Canal. The Suez Canal indirectly connects the Mediterranean Sea to the Indian Ocean. And the Panama Canal connects the Atlantic Ocean with the Pacific Ocean. Both canals were vital to their builders. The British constructed the Suez Canal while the Americans were responsible for the Panama Canal. The two countries mostly used the canals to engage in trade and to move their military forces around the world more swiftly. Nowadays, ships from countries all around the world make use of both canals, repeatedly proving just how important they are to water travel.

- ① The Suez and Panama Canals
- ② Building a Better Canal
- ③ American and British Canal-Building
- ④ What Makes Canals Important

문 16. 다음 글의 요지로 가장 적절한 것은?

The ways in which schools mete out punishment to unruly students have changed greatly over the years. In the past, corporal punishment was most commonly used by teachers. When a student misbehaved, the teacher would hit the student. This often took the form of spanking and was generally considered an acceptable method of punishment. However, as times changed, so too did the way teachers punished their students. Many resorted to giving students detention; students had to stay after school for thirty minutes to an hour. During this time, perhaps they had to clean the classroom or simply sit at their desks and be quiet. Nowadays, some schools are using alternative methods of punishment. Some make the students engage in volunteer work around town. Others require the students to tutor younger ones. While the usefulness of these methods is debatable, one thing is for sure: The methods of punishment used in the future will differ from those used today.

- ① Misbehaving students should never tutor others
- ② Teachers rarely spank their students nowadays
- ③ Detention is the most effective way to punish students.
- ④ Teachers should never punish their students by hitting them.

Due to improper behavior at the swimming pool, the following rules are being imposed immediately. First, due to several instances of vandalism, minors under the age of 14 must be accompanied by an adult at all times while are at the pool. Also, no minors under the age of 16 are allowed to swim after sunset. The diving boards have been removed because many individuals were engaging in dangerous activities on them. Also, a security device has been added to the emergency alarm. If someone presses the alarm, red paint will spray out from it. Please use the alarm only in case of a real emergency.

Lastly, remember that there should be no running or roughhousing near the pool. If the rules continue to be ignored, the pool will be closed.

- ① Several people have pulled the emergency alarm lately.
- ② The swimming pool is going to be closing soon
- ③ No minors are allowed in the pool at any time
- ④ People have been causing damage to the pool

문 18. 다음 글의 내용과 일치하지 않는 것은?

In recent years, a new kind of store has arisen. It is called the megastore, and Wal-Mart is the perfect example of it. Megastores are, as their name implies, enormous places that are often bigger than a soccer field. They sell all kinds of products—from electronics to clothes to foodstuffs. Furthermore, unlike traditional “mom and pop” stores, they typically offer deep discounts on a number of items. They can offer these discounts since what they lose in individual sales is made up for thanks to the volume of sales they make. Megastores have rapidly become popular because they offer one-stop shopping. That is, people do not have to go to multiple stores all around town. They simply visit a megastore and take care of all of their shopping needs.

- ① Megastores have yet to promote their items nationwide
- ② Megastores are gaining a lot of popularity these days.
- ③ Megastores offer discounts on many products.
- ④ Megastores users can buy almost everything they want.

문 19. 다음 글의 내용과 일치하는 것은?

Being famous has its drawbacks, one of which is the constant presence of paparazzi. These photographers haunt—some would say “stalk”—famous people night and day in the hopes of snapping photos of them in candid or embarrassing situations. Some stars are surrounded by the paparazzi so much that they can’t even leave their homes without drawing a crowd. In one famous incident—the death of Princess Diana of England—people blamed the presence of paparazzi for the car crash that killed her, yet this was later proven untrue. On the other hand, without the paparazzi, perhaps these people wouldn’t be famous at all.

- ① Paparazzi take pictures of celebrities in their homes
- ② Paparazzi didn’t cause the death of Princess Diana
- ③ Paparazzi cause celebrities to do embarrassing acts.
- ④ Celebrities are only famous because of paparazzi.
