Chicago's Newberry Library and the Brookfield Zoo were among 10 institutions presented Monday with the National Medal for Museum and Library Service by First Lady Laura Bush at the White House. The annual awards, given by the Institute of Museum and Library Services in Washington, D. C., honor institutions for their collections and community involvement, and include a $10,000 award each. The Brookfield Zoo was honored for programs such as Zoo Adventure Passport, which provides free field trips to low-income families. "Brookfield Zoo is a living classroom for local students," Bush said. The Newberry Library was also honored for its extensive collection of more than half a million maps and its role in helping African-Americans trace their family heritage.

- ① The Brookfield Zoo ran a program that supports free admission for low-income families.
- ② The Brookfield Zoo assisted African-American kids in tracing their family history.
- ③ The Newberry Library and the Brookfield Zoo won a $ 10,000 award respectively.
- ④ The Newberry Library was awarded the medal for an extensive number of maps.

During the nine-week summer session, services for the university community will follow a revised schedule. Specific changes for campus bus services, the cafeteria, and summer hours for the infirmary and recreational and athletic facilities will be posted on the bulletin board outside of the cafeteria. Weekly movie and concert schedules are being finalized and will be posted outside the cafeteria every Wednesday. Campus buses will leave the main hall every half an hour and make all of the regular stops along their routes around the campus. The cafeteria will serve breakfast, lunch, and early dinner from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. during the weekdays and from noon to 7 p.m. on weekends. The library will maintain regular hours during the weekdays, but shorter hours noon to 7 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. All students who want to use the library borrowing services and the recreational, athletic, and entertainment facilities must have an authorized summer identification card. This announcement will also appear in the next issue of the student newspaper.

- ① Movie and concert schedules will be notified twice a month.
- ② During the weekdays, the cafeteria and the library will open at noon.
- ③ Campus buses will run every hour and make all of the regular stops.
- ④ A valid identification card is required to use the athletic and entertainment facilities during the summer session.

A strong cold front is on its way to northern Illinois tonight. Winds up to 70 mph are expected throughout the evening and will create wind chill temperatures 30 degrees below zero. “We’ll just handle it like we handle it every winter,” Mary Russel says, a local resident who has been living in the area her whole life. “It is cold, but it’s been colder. We’ll be alright,” she added. The local news stations have issued a wind advisory and warned that high winds can make driving difficult, especially for small cars. It’s advisable to stay indoors until the cold front passes and the wind calms down. Avoid driving unless absolutely necessary. The front should pass early in the morning, when it will be safe to go outside again.

- ① High winds are predicted to create temperatures below freezing
- ② Local resident Mary Russel claims that it has never been colder.
- ③ Warnings were issued to announce hazardous driving conditions.
- ④ The cold front is expected to be finished in less than 24 hours.

The local zoo recently welcomed a baby gorilla. Zookeeper Paul Haft stated that it was extraordinary to have such a rare animal, especially in its early stages of life, as people would be able to watch the animal grow up. The baby gorilla, named Marge, was born at the zoo and is healthy in all respects. However, zoo officials explained that she is not ready to be seen by the public just yet. This is because she needs a few months to bond with her mother. Otherwise, it could cause behavioral issues later on in her life. More updates about Marge will be published as the zoo releases them.

- ① Marge was born in captivity and is in good condition.
- ② Baby gorillas should only be viewed in private.
- ③ Marge will remain hidden from the public for a few months.
- ④ It’s necessary for baby gorillas to form a relationship with their mothers.

Thank you for signing up to take a tour of our tea factory. We’re excited to have you and can’t wait to show you how our teas are blended and packaged right here in our tea production plant. But first, let me give you a little history about our company. In 1959, three young, naïve friends got together and started this company based on their belief that they could provide healthy products everyone could enjoy at an affordable price. They used only the freshest herbs and roots that they harvested in the wild, packaged in earth-friendly materials, and then shipped to local herb markets. Today, all of the mixing, packaging, and organizing happen here at our plant. During the tour you’ll get to see the whole process, from the moment the herbs and roots come in from the fields to how they end up in individual tea bags.

- ① This company was started by three siblings in 1960.
- ② The goal of the company was to provide expensive teas.
- ③ The tour will show how the tea gets mixed and put into bags.
- ④ The tea is all grown at the factory to save on shipping costs.

Although technology has made our lives easier in many ways, it has also led to the isolation of seniors in society. For example, e-mail, mobile phones, and social networking sites allow users to stay in touch from anywhere in the world, but only for those who know how to use the technology. Senior citizens who grew up before using computers was common usually do not know how to operate these devices. The same problem exists at subway and bus stations. With most cities adopting the use of rechargeable transit cards in place of cash, seniors are burdened with figuring out how to use the vending machines to recharge their cards. In some cases, seniors may even choose to avoid public transportation altogether or be forced to use costly taxi services which prevents them from going out and interacting with society.

- ① Technology makes everyone's life easier.
- ② Modern smartphones are designed for simpler operation.
- ③ Public transportation fares can only be paid in cash.
- ④ Those who can use technology benefit from its convenience.
- ⑤ Seniors prefer taxis over other forms of public transportation.

5. Surrealism에 관한 다음 글의 내용과 일치하지 않는 것은?

Surrealism was a cultural movement that began in the 1920s. Growing out of the Dada art movement, it focused largely on the illogical. Specifically, surrealism's aim was to resolve the contradictory conditions between dreams and reality. Surrealist artists used methods developed by Freud, such as free association writing, to liberate their imaginations. They viewed surrealism as a way to express the unconscious mind. Some distinct characteristics in surrealist works included the element of surprise, unexpected juxtapositions, and most of all, the reconstruction of ordinary objects in order to strip away their everyday significance.

- ① It centered its focus on the illogical.
- ② It was initiated by Freud's theory of free association.
- ③ It was a method of expressing the unconscious.
- ④ It used ordinary objects as its main subjects.
